Clean-up begins

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON - Wetlands, drain pipes and cul-de-sacs. Here is a rundown on the run-offs and other matters that the Wilmington Conservation Commission addressed at its August 16 meeting...

• OLIN CORPORATION. Clean-up at the Olin site on Eames Street began on Monday, August 14th. Erosion control methods are installed and vegetation within the work area is being cleared. The removal of contaminated sediment and filling of wetland areas is scheduled for the week of September 4th. Stone dams will be strategically placed to ensure the containment of any sediment in the proposed work area. The work is scheduled to continue through November.

• 14R MILL ROAD. The Request for Determination received a positive determination from the Conservation Commission. The proposed plans for the lot will have to wait. The next step is to file a Notice of Intent with the proper plans and abutter notifications.

• ROOSEVELT ROAD. The RDA for this site received a positive determination. The proposed new addition will be located approximately fifteen feet from the wetlands.

"The demarcation [of the wetlands] looks okay," said John Keeley, the Assistant Director of Planning and Conservation. Keeley said that a certificate of compliance and more information is needed for the house.

The Commission suggested that a Notice of Intent be filed for the new addition and that the certificate of compliance for the house be taken care of.

• FORDHAM ROAD. The RDA for this handicap-access ramp received a negative determination. The ramp will be built soon.

• BUTTERS ROW. The new 30 x 40-foot proposed addition will have to wait. Karen Strazzere proposed an apartment and onecar garage addition that would allow her mother to live with her family and still have some independence.

"The wetlands extend to the east of the property and half way down the lot," said Mr. Keeley. He said that there is a strip of wetland that comes close to an existing shed.

The Commission voted to continue the hearing to allow time to check the wetland demarcation and to see if the plans can be adjusted.

• BROOKFIELD ESTATES. The construction of two culdesacs will have to wait. There will be wetland crossings for the roadway, the two sewer lines and one water connection. The Commission is concerned about the wetland crossings, the blasting for the project, and other wetland disruptions. Several revisions were proposed for this meeting.

"There were two major issues discussed at the last meeting," said Mike Carter, of GCG Associates, who is representing James Mangano, who is the applicant for the project. The first issue is the possible vernal pool. The second issue involves the wetland crossings exceeding the bank threshold.

Added Carter, "Norse Environmental submitted a letter to [you] outlining that there is no vernal pool."

"The revision block didn't give any details about

CRUISING FOR A CURE. Wilmington kiddo Sarah Ward, 8, smiles from her seat on her aunt's motorcycle. Sarah has been living with Cystic Fibrosis since she was five months old, and on Sunday, September 10, there will be many motorcyclists who will take a ride in hopes that the money that they raise will help find a cure to end the disease. All funds raised at the 3rd Annual "Cruise for a Cure" will go directly to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. (courtesy photo)

Cystic Fibrosis Fundraiser

Local girl inspires "Cruise"

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

WILMINGTON - Start those engines!

On Sunday, September 10, motorcyclists everywhere are encouraged to go cruisin' for a cure.

The most important part, the cure, will be for Cystic Fibrosis.

The fun part, the cruising, will begin at Chelmsford High School in Chelmsford, and it will continue along the scenic roads of Northern Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire.

If this enticing offer to join a good cause and take your wheels for an idyllic tour of the early autumn foliage feels familiar, it should. It is time once again for "Cruise for a Cure," an annual event in which raised proceeds go straight to The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The fund-raiser was organized three years ago by Christine and Christopher Newcomb and Karen Ward.

It's all in the name of people everywhere who live through the daily struggles that Cystic Fibrosis presents. There is one strong and brave individual, however, to whom this event is being dedicated.

Meet Sarah Ward. The daughter of Karen Ward, Sarah is an eight-year-old Wilmington resident with her sights set on entering the third grade at the Wildwood School next week. She is a typical kid, full of energy and high spirits. She enjoys doing everything that your child enjoys doing, from riding her bike to jumping rope. She loves ice skating the most, and, sure enough, she is an enthusiastic member of the Wilmington Figure Skating Club.

"Sarah is a great kid," says Christine Newcomb, the young skater's aunt. "She loves her family. She's witty and affectionate. She has nonstop energy. I wish I could bottle some of her energy and save it for myself."

Sarah also has Cystic Fibrosis. In fact, she was diagnosed as having it when she was only five months old.

Cystic Fibrosis is a complex disease in which the body manufactures a mucus so thick and sticky that it blocks passageways from one part of the body to another. The disease wreaks havoc on the lungs, making its prey more susceptible to colds that are hard to recover from. It is a disease that affects people nutritionally because enzymes that pass from the pancreas to the stomach get mired in the mucus along the way. As a result, the body is unable to absorb and break down fat.

Sarah has a daily regimen that helps her leap these hurdles.

Every day, she must perform 30 minutes of physical therapy for her chest. She wears a special vest that hooks up to a powerful vibrating machine. These daily half-hour vibration sessions stimulate the flow of fluids through her lungs.

For 20 minutes each day, Sarah must also wear a nebulizer, a mask into which pre-measured amounts

Home improvement loans

Income ranges detailed for applicants

by SHAWN P. SULLIVAN

In last week's edition of The Town Crier, an article titled "Rehabbing Wilmington Homes" was printed on the front page. The article detailed the process by which qualified Wilmington residents could apply to the town's Community Development Program for a Home Improvement loan to finance repairs to their property.

In the article, a brief reference was made to the ranges of combined family incomes that will determine which families are eligible to receive such funds. Due to a misunderstanding and a misinterpretation on the part of The Town Crier, incorrect dollar figures were printed.

Here is a complete summary of the correct figures by which applicants will be deemed eligible or ineligible for upcoming Home Improvement funds.

• In a household of one person, that individual must receive an annual income between $22,950 and $35,150 in order to be considered for assistance.

• 2 people in a household: A combined income between $26,200 and $40,150

• 3 people: Between $29,500 and $45,200

• 4 people: Between $32,750 and $50,200

• 5 people: Between $33,350 and $54,200

• 6 people: Between $38,000 and $58,250

• 7 people: Between $40,600 and $62,250

• 8 people: Between $43,250 and $66,250

If you are proven eligible for a home improvement loan, then you will have the benefit of a declining fifteen-year time frame in which to pay back the loan. If you fix your home and move out of it within the first year, then you will need to pay back all funds that were granted to you. If you move away seven or eight years later, then you will only have to pay back roughly 50% of what you received. And if you fix your home and continue to live there for fifteen years or longer? You won't have to pay back a cent.

"Every year, the amount that you would have to pay back within that fifteen-year time frame is adjusted to reflect a 6.7% decrease," says Lynn Duncan, the Director of Planning and Conservation.

There is a forgiveness policy in place for those grant recipients who within those fifteen years are affected by hardship or emergencies.

The Town Crier regrets the error that appeared in last week's article. Furthermore, we apologize for any of the confusion or frustration that may have resulted.

In turn, The Town Crier appreciates the patience and understanding with which Paula Barry brought the mistake to our attention. Barry is the Director of the town's Community Development Program.

MANNERS MATTER. Cassandra Lee, age 6, braved the surprisingly cutthroat competition of a national pageant in New York earlier this month and emerged as the event's "Miss Sweetheart." That's a national title, by the way. To read about Cassie's trip, please turn to page 6. (Maureen Lamoureux photo)

WILMINGTON - As we begin this year's school year, I would like to take this opportunity to remind everyone of some of the basic elements that keep our children safe traveling to and from school. It is imperative that we, as citizens and public safety officials provide an environment conducive to the safety and security of our town's greatest residents, our kids.

To begin with, please remember when approaching a school zone, the speed limit is 20 MPH. Nothing faster. Many drivers erroneously believe that if they can't see any children around, it's okay to increase their speed. As a reminder from one of my previous articles, any speeding offense carries a minimum fine of $75 for the first 10 mph over the limit, and increases at $10 per mile an hour over and above that.

Next, keep in mind that school zones are obviously an area with many crosswalks. Pay close attention to the side of the road. Young children can sometimes dart out into traffic unexpectedly. Also, crossing guards normally stand here and if you sight them in advance, this will give you ample time to stop when they direct you to do so. Again, these are the reasons why school zones are posted at 20 MPH. The 20 MPH limit should be observed whether or not you see the flashing lights, or other 20 MPH limit signs.

When a crossing guard or any pedestrian enters the crosswalk, all drivers must come to complete stop and wait until the pedestrian has finished fully walking to the other side of the street, or the crossing guard instructs you to proceed. Crosswalk violations carry a hefty fine of up to $100. Crossing guards will often report violators to the police department to be followed up.

Parents should encourage their children who walk or bike to school, to observe all safety precautions. Children should be advised to utilize crosswalks when crossing the street at all times. When riding a bike, kids should get off the bike and walk it across the street. In the absence of a sidewalk, children should ride their bike with the flow of traffic and use hand signals at all times. Advise children to always wear a helmet, and have it fitted properly.

Unfortunately every year police personnel and bus drivers observe a very dangerous offense all too often. Passing school buses. Under no circumstances should a bus be passed, especially with its red flashing lights on! When a bus is loading or off-loading children, an impatient or unaware driver greatly increases a child's chances of being struck and seriously injured or worse, as often times children cross the street while the bus is stopped. Violators of this law will be dealt with appropriately with harsh fines. For first, second and third offenses the fines are $200, $400, and $1000 respectively. Violators will be written citations for these offenses.

Finally, many improvements have been made to our school system over the past year. The town has labored intensely to make drastic upgrades to the soccer field at the Shawsheen School, adding much needed lighting to the high school football field, and complete the long awaited new Middle School. Minor vandalism plagued construction efforts at the Middle School over the spring and summer, and as such, the town would like your help in keeping all our school systems vandalism free.

This would include instances of graffiti or even someone golfing on the new soccer field or riding a dirt bike on town owned property. Please take the time to look over all public facilities when driving by or walking your dog or playing with your children. Make the effort to call the Wilmington Police Department to report any suspicious activity.

If we all do our part to ensure our children are protected and are given a safe environment to learn in, we will all benefit by knowing our children are able to concentrate on their education and after school activities. Please drive safely and always wear your seatbelt.

Rep. Miceli points to local benefits as state passes budget

BOSTON - Representative James R. Miceli (D-Wilmington) has announced that $21.4 billion budget has been signed into law. The following key objectives will be adhered to in the FY2001 Budget. These include Rep. Miceli's commitment to providing the 20th Middlesex district with an increase in educational funding along with increases in a variety of health care programs.

Directly pertaining to health care incentives, the FY2001 Budget has included $32.2 million for the commencement of new prescription drug program for the elderly and the disabled. With this program seniors and disabled individuals will have protection against the financial burdens of prescription drug costs. Participation is optional for the program. The state will cover the cost of all prescriptions for people below 188 percent of the federal poverty level and all other enrollees will make reasonable payments in proportion to their income.

Along with the inclusion of the senior pharmacy the FY2001 Budget contains expanded funding for cancer screening. The legislature restored $13,133,719 for the purposes of prevention screening for breast and prostate cancers after the Governor vetoed these original two line items.

Rep. Miceli is pleased to announce that there will be $187 million in additional state education aid for fiscal year 2001. This funding will ensure that the towns of Tewksbury and Wilmington will be able to give our children the best education possible. An additional $28 million to promote the voluntary expansion of quality, full day kindergarten was included. The budget also provides $27 million for early reading programs, pre-kindergarten and kindergarten and family literacy programs.

Also approved was an $18 million in new funding to reduce class sizes in grades K-three. For expanding computer education there was $55 million over the next five years for computers and internet access to classrooms throughout the Commonwealth.

Pertaining directly to tax cut provisions, the FY2001 Budget has incorporated measures to include a charitable giving tax cut that will allow for a deduction from personal income for charitable contributions. This measure will save taxpayers $80 million in FY2001 and will continue to annualize.

Chairman Miceli said that he was pleased with the final product, noting that the FY2001 Budget was a sound package that allowed for controlled spending with an even distribution statewide. Measures taken directly pertaining to the 20th Middlesex District include Rep. Miceli's motion to include $150,000 for the cleanup of the Wilmington Town Forest.

Last chance to succeed

WILMINGTON - Alone, and not making it, while the rest of the world moves on to success is indeed a lonely place to be. Many children are faced with this dreaded fear of not belonging. This failure can lead to great anger and a life of non-conformity. Drugs, liquor, and crime can become their defense to hide from perceived poor self-esteem. There are many problems along the way that can cause this debilitating effect. Failing at sports, or academics leaves scars that can deepen with aging. The accumulation of many failures confirms to the child that he is indeed a loser. Unless this person can begin to find success, he can be doomed to a life of pain and fulfillment.

Too often the opportunity to succeed in a school setting is denied. The lack of proper parenting, ineffective teaching, lack of discipline, can all contribute to failing performance. It can become a delicate balancing act for parents and teachers to reach certain children. Too much pressure or not enough can have the same results, failure. Millions of dollars are wasted on upgrading the learning process without understanding the failing child. These children feel and think differently from the succeeding child. They are in constant frustration. They fear the involvement of participation that might expose their lack of knowledge. They dare not take the necessary steps forward that could lead to achievement and salvation. These steps are crucial. All possible help is needed to keep them in motion. Making this possible requires providing transitions that produce motivation to achieve.

If these children don't make it in school it could be the end. However, there still is another opportunity to save the child. This opportunity comes if they are successful in the work world. Yet, many of these children follow the same tendency to fail. They go from one job to another, quitting or being fired. The reasons are never quite clear. Sadly at this time all the nurturing, teaching, and preparing has come to an end. No one is there to find out why.

I truly believe most of these children could make it with the proper understanding and creation of meaningful preparation. However, we only hear the children's avoidance of looking for a job, the many excuses why they left their job, and their persecution from management. Always excuses and complaints that only turn off parents, relatives, and friends, making their life more miserable. They are indeed alone because no one truly understands their dilemma. Chances are no one ever will, because the victim will never tell. Only success can open the door to sharing their past failings.

We must give these children the opportunity to become responsible workers. Whenever possible we must clear the path, by comfortable transitions leading to work accomplishments. Take a task and break it into small parts, then prepare child for each part. Lots of practice and a setting that it's OK to fail will insure success. If the child is not given this opportunity, chances are he will become a burden to society or become a criminal. He must survive somehow.

Helping these children should have top priority. Not only does this failure to work destroy the individual, but hurts society. Any financial help to ensure success will be returned 10-fold. It may seem like an impossible task, but many times it can be very simple. Time, patience, and a little innovation can go a long way. These children need to believe in themselves and the best persuasion is success.

I had a client who we will call Bob who was losing the battle to accomplish and be recognized as an intelligent human being. He had reached that crucial age of 16 and still was not making it academically. He had become a very angry child who defied and who would not conform to school rules and regulations. His 11 years of schooling were degrading and frustrating. Is it any wonder he was angry and non-conforming? This boy had to find some success and self respect before it was too late. I had heard he was mechanically inclined. I believe if you find a strength, utilize it as a building block to greater success. I asked this person if he would enjoy doing some carpentry. With some reluctance he said OK. I had a door that needed to be installed. This can be a real challenge for any lay person. Being an ex-carpenter, I felt I could teach him well. It involved making up a door frame, cutting out the butts or hinges, fitting and hanging the door, drilling and putting in the lock, and finally putting casings around the door. This is a real achievement compared to installing a pre-hung door.

Without the proper transitions this task would surely end in failure. A step by step procedure must be used without pressure or expectations. Before working on the door, each procedure was performed over and over on scrap pieces of wood. The task was made non-threatening by accepting possible failure. "Bob this is very difficult so don't expect to install the lock or prepare the door the first time. You will make many mistakes. Not because you don't have the ability but because you lack the experience. With every mistake you will learn what not to do." The most comfortable setting is to know it's OK to fail. In a short time Bob was ready and able to install the door.

A little extra time and innovation can perform miracles. Bob's successful achievement gave him a new belief in himself. The following summer he found a job as a carpenter's helper. Four years later he rolled down his truck window to tell me he was a carpenter contractor.

Pageant winner Cassandra Lee named Miss Sweetheart

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN
WILMINGTON - How'd she do? That's a question that Connie and Paul Lee have been asked quite often since their six-year-old daughter, Cassandra, returned from a national pageant in New York earlier this month.

As you might recall, from a feature story that appeared in the Town Crier in late June, Cassandra Lee was to spend the weekend of August third through the seventh in White Plains, New York, where she was to participate and compete in the National All-American Girl/Boy Pageant at the Crown Plaza Hotel.

While there, she was to compete in six categories: ones in which she was to model a formal gown, a semi-formal gown, and a gown of her choice; one in which she was to be interviewed by judges; one in which she had to create and perform a 30-second ad; and a final one in which she had to showcase some talent in a rehearsed number.

Well, Cassandra and her family went, and now they're back. Thus, the one question that is inspired is the one that was asked back up at the top: How'd she do?

In a word? Excellent. Check out this pint-sized hat trick:

- Pageant trophy today, Academy Award tomorrow? For starters, Cassandra won a Future Actress Award.

- "For the 30-second ad category, Cassie performed an Oscar Meyer Weiner commercial," explains Connie. "Most likely, that was the reason why the judges named her Future Actress."

Such a trophy is a pretty encouraging distinction for Cassandra, who for a few years now has been telling her parents that she wants to be a television actress when she grows up.

"We think it's great that Cassie wants to be an actress," assures Connie. "However, we are beginning to instill in her the understanding that she will need back-up skills in another field. You know, something to fall back on, just in case."

- She oughta be in pictures. Cassandra also placed third in the Photogenic category, for a picture of her smiling face that she submitted to the pageant.

- Cassandra was also named "Miss Sweetheart," besting 221 other contestants who had high hopes for the title.

"That was the biggy," smiles Connie. "That one was important to Paul and me because it is a reflection of Cassie's values and how she carries herself and how she treats people."

While Cassandra came back to Wilmington a winner, she and her family also returned home with a sharper perspective of the world out there. Along with two trophies and a blue "Miss Sweetheart" banner, the Lees also brought home with them a fresh dose of insight and an affirmed philosophy on what really matters in life.

Says Connie, "The pageant in New York will be the only national one that we will allow Cassie to sign up for. It was the first one, and it'll be the last one. We'll be sticking to regional pageants from now on."

And with good reason. At one point early this summer, Connie called the pageant headquarters in Salem, New York and sought assurance that the event in August would have certain guidelines that were healthy and respectful to the very young girls and boys who would be participating in it. Sure enough, a pageant representative soothed Connie's concerns by informing her that the following things were not allowed in competitions: heavier makeup than usual; clothing inappropriate to the child's age; behavior that intentionally or unintentionally conveys "come-hither" sentiments; and so on.

Now that the pageant has come and gone, Connie now feels as though that pageant representative was less than forthright.

"In the end, I just got the impression that the representative told me those rules just to make me feel better about where we were going," says Connie. "The truth is, the JonBonet Ramseys of the world were there, and so were their mothers."

JonBonet Ramsey was a six-year-old "beauty queen" who was murdered in the basement of her Colorado home in late 1996. Her murder has received much national news coverage since then, and it has spawned endless debates about the pros, cons, and pressures involved with entering children in pageants.

Much to the Lees' surprise, makeup was slathered heavily on many young faces at the pageant, gowns were worn with two-thousand-dollar price tags, and several poses that were struck on the catwalk teetered awfully close to that uncomfortable, come-hither line.

"Cassie complimented one girl about her dress," Connie noted. "The girl turned around and made a rude remark about Cassie's dress looking as though it came from Kmart. It taught Cassie a valuable lesson about some of the people that are out there in this world. We couldn't be prouder of her and the way that she handled herself throughout that whole weekend."

In the end, though, it wasn't the heavy makeup and the pricey gowns and the unsettling advances that won anybody the nationally known title of "Miss Sweetheart," was it?

Instead, it was the politeness, the humility, and the innocence of Wilmington's own Cassandra Lee that carried the day.

of a pulmozyme chemical are squeezed. As she inhales the chemical mist, it thins the mucus in her lungs.

Lastly, every day Sarah must swallow a pill that helps her break down that fat that her body cannot.

"She stays healthy with this regimen," says Newcomb. "We're very strict in enforcing it, but Sarah understands."

Sarah is not alone. Approximately 30,000 American children and adults are affected by Cystic Fibrosis, which is the number one genetic disease in this country. That's more people than there are in the entire town of Wilmington.

Here's where all of you motorcyclist enthusiasts come in.

On Sunday, September 10, all you need to do is show up to register for the fund-raiser at Chelmsford High School between the hours of 9 and 10 in the morning. A flat fee donation will cost $25. The twenty-five bucks buys you the ride, a barbecue and door prizes.

The motorcycle ride you'll take alongside the other participants will last from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m.. Then, at one in the afternoon, you'll be in for a day of barbecued food, music and prizes at St. Vartanantz Armenia Church at 180 Old Westford Road in Chelmsford.

Prizes? Sure, you've heard correctly.

If between now and the event you raise $50 in sponsorships, you will receive a Team Cystic Fibrosis tee shirt, as well as one shot at the grand prize. If you raise $100, then you have two chances at the grand prize. One hundred and fifty dollars equals three shots, and so on.

What's the grand prize? Here are some hints: a sharp-looking bike, a great place to stay, and, if you are so inclined, a mouse with big ears.

The cruise participant who wins the grand prize will be given two round-trip tickets with American Airlines, two nights at the Sheraton Hotel in Orlando, Florida, and, here's the one to make your mouth water, three days of riding on a rented Harley from American V-Twin Leasing. And, yes, we're talking unlimited mileage here.

The rider who raises the most money will win two round-trip American Airlines tickets to anywhere within the 48 contiguous United States. A minimum of $750 must be raised.

In 1998, "Cruise for a Cure" raised an engine-revving $4,000. In 1999, the fund-raiser sped to a doubled amount of $8,000. Simple math can tell you what "Cruise" is hoping to rack up this summer.

"We're hoping to raise $16,000," says Newcomb. "That's not unreasonable."

It helps to know that the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation enjoys a strong reputation. Smart Money Magazine recognized the foundation as "one charity that you can trust."

"The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation puts 90 percent of all donations towards finding a cure," says Newcomb. "That's 90 cents for every dollar."

If you have any questions, you can seek their answers at The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation at 1-800-757-0203. You can also write to the foundation at 114 Perimeter Road/Unit E/Nashua, New Hampshire 03063.

And as for Sarah?

Next week she'll pay a visit to the hospital, where she'll take part in a "clean-out" that will rid her body of any bacteria that may have accumulated through any colds that she may have had.

"She does tire easily," explains Newcomb. "Especially in hot weather. This summer has been fantastic, though, because it has been much cooler than usual."

We were all eight once. Was there really anything better than enjoying a "fantastic" summer before heading into the third grade in the fall?

Clean-up begins

the revisions," Mr. Keeley said. He also disagreed with the lack of finding a vernal pool, although he said elimination of one of the wetland crossings was an improvement.

The roadway will have an eight-foot-wide, twentyfoot-long bridge constructed over the wetlands. The bridge will include a box culvert and eighteeninch footings to support it. The sewer and water pipes will be together in one of the crossings.

Mr. Carter indicated that he was having problems getting the necessary easements from the neighbors. He also said that a wildlife habitat study did not have to be done because the level of wetland disturbance does not exceed the limit at which the state requires.

The Commission was not satisfied with the information presented, and its members voted to continue the hearing to allow time for the applicant to resolve several issues: determination of the vernal pool; a sewer extension permit from the Town of Wilmington; and an evaluation of the nearby pumping station.

• NORTH STREET. The town project to alleviate the excess water problem in the vicinity of the backyard of 1 North Street was closed. There will be no work at 3 North Street.

Town Engineer Harold Gillam said that the proposal is for a surface drain to carry runoff from the rear yard to the northerly side of the parcel. The run-off would discharge into an existing swale running along the property line and then be picked up by an existing drain on the sideline of North Street.

"The surface drain is proposed to go through the yard and then to the swale," Mr. Keeley said. "It seems fine."

"The excavation will be mostly by hand," said Mr. Gillam. "The town is not responsible for [the project] after it is installed."

A tribute to Angie

WILMINGTON - A page of Wilmington history has turned.

After 60 years of continuous service, Rocco's Restaurant goes on, but "Mrs. Rocco," co-founder of Rocco's Restaurant has died.

Angela DePasquale, who came to Wilmington 62 years ago to help her husband Rocco DePasquale build the landmark eatery passed away Sunday morning, August 20, 2000 at Saint's Memorial Medical Center in Lowell. She was 89.

Born in Quincy, Massachusetts in 1910, to Rose and Salvatore Marannano, Mrs. DePasquale was trained as a seamstress but found her true vocation when her talents were needed to feed the blossoming summer resort town that Wilmington of the 1940s had become.

The restaurant, built by Rocco Sr. from Wilmington's abundant supply of field stones, opened July 4, 1940. It had a room sized brick lined open hearth oven and a menu that highlighted pizza, a novel item at the time.

Angie and Rocco worked day and night to build their business and it soon became a local hot spot.

When summer customers went back to the city, the ingenious Rocco devised other ways to stay in business. Each Thanksgiving, for example, he would cook your Thanksgiving turkey in his big oven for a modest fee. In the days before aluminum foil and self basting birds, this saved harried homemakers precious time and effort.

Every Thanksgiving Eve, as the sun began to dip toward the horizon, dozens of stuffed, dressed, oven ready turkeys in their roasting pans would show up at the restaurant's back door, their owners in tow, for an overnight baking in the oven.

While Silver Lake no longer attracts city folks and the Rainbow and the Black Kat are only memories, Rocco's survives.

It is a tribute to the hard work of Angie and Rocco, to their love for authentic Italian cuisine and the skills they passed on to their children and to those grandchildren who now own and operate Rocco's.

Quite and hard working, Mrs. DePasquale spent most of her days behind the scenes, in the restaurant kitchen, or, more rarely in the six room apartment above the restaurant where the family lived. Yet, perhaps because her kitchen extended a welcome to all, she was known throughout the town.

In the early 1970s, Mrs. DePasquale retired from actively working in the business to care for her ailing husband. Rocco Jr. took over day to day management of the restaurant.

Rocco DePasquale Sr. died in 1974.

Mrs. DePasquale still maintained a watchful eye on the people of Wilmington and their culinary habits, however, by her presence each night in the restaurant dining room.

In 1999, failing health made it necessary to curtail even this activity.

Mrs. DePasquale was the mother of the late Rose Palmer, the late Salvatore DePasquale and the late Rocco V. DePasquale and the sister of Josephine Falzone, Joseph Infantino and the late Mario Marannano, the late Beatrice Bottaro and the late Salvatore Infantino.

She is also survived by her grandchildren, Mark, Chuck, Matthew, Carol, Regina and Rusty DePasquale all of Wilmington and Crystal and Salvatore DePasquale Jr. of New Hampshire and Mary Jo Cann of Billerica.

She is also survived by 14 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, August 22, 2000 at St. Dorothy's Church followed by interment in the family plot at Wildwood Cemetery.

ANGIE DANCED WITH HER HUSBAND ROCCO in 1962 at the wedding of their son Salvatore to Elaine.

Attorney Joseph Courtney

A Farewell to Wilmington's beloved 2nd Town Manager

By Larz Neilson

Attorney Joseph Courtney, who died last Thursday, was highly influential in the development of Wilmington as it is today.

Courtney came to Wilmington in the mid-1950's as Town Manager. He held that post for about five years, and then he became an attorney. As a lawyer, he handled many local zoning cases.

It was Joe Courtney who obtained four Wilmington exits off Interstate 93, more exits than any other town along the highway. These exits proved most valuable in the development of industrial land in the town.

He was also the person who brought Avco to Wilmington. Avco, which is now Textron, has been a major taxpayer in Wilmington for the past 43 years.

Joe was Wilmington's second Town Manager. The town adopted the Town Manager Plan as its charter in the early 1950's, and the first manager was Dean Cushing. The concept of the plan was to put professional management in charge of town affairs, thus removing the political influence of the selectmen. One of Courtney's first major accomplishments was a re-vamping of the town's purchasing system.

But the hiring of a Town Manager did not kill all political ambition. After Courtney became Town Manager, a movement arose to eliminate the Town Manager Plan, and Courtney became the focus of it. The slogan was, "Joe Must Go!" It was a hot and heavy campaign, but the headline in the Town Crier on March 15, 1956 read, "Joe Stays."

Joe remained as Town Manager until 1959, when he left to attend law school.

As an attorney, he still had a major impact on the development of Wilmington. He specialized in development and rezoning issues, and was a familiar face at town meetings, representing various industrial clients.

Joe did well in the legal profession. In the 1970's he won a major tax case in Saugus that was worth about $3 million. He and his partners bought an office building in downtown Lowell.

For many years, Joe and his wife, Stella, had standard-bred poodles. First there was Jolie, then Bran. Jolie was often seen in Joe's car. At one town meeting, the late Representative Fred Cain came into the meeting and said to Joe, "Hey, there's some dame outside, sitting in your car!" Fred only had a quick glance from behind the car, and he mistook Jolie for a woman.

It was while Joe was Town Manager that Captain Larz Neilson founded the Town Crier. He became close friends with Joe, and the friendship lasted a lifetime. Joe's political insight was often reflected in Larz's writing. For many years, Sunday dinner between the two men was a ritual. The Courtneys always had a large garden and took great pleasure in cooking with the herbs they grew.

A Town Crier editorial in 1956 had a line that would be a good epitaph for him: "Joe Courtney can be described by one word - Sincerity."

State funds Rocco DePasquale Memorial Handicapped Pier

WILMINGTON - Representative Jim Miceli (D-Wilmington) announced that the line item he had inserted in the House version of the Transportation Bond Bill, to fund the Rocco DePasquale Memorial Handicapped Pier at Silver Lake, was signed by the Governor.

At Chairman Miceli's urging the house members of the conference committee concurred with the amendment and adopted it for insertion in the final document. Rep. Miceli said, "Rocco DePasquale contributed significantly to this community. Rocco's door was always open to any of Wilmington's citizens who might have a problem. He was a successful businessman and an outstanding Selectman. This project was his idea and I am happy to bring it closer to becoming a reality. Senator Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) added, "Rocco DePasquale was an exemplary citizen who cared deeply about Wilmington and held true community spirit. This pier is a remembrance of that spirit because it will provide access to one of the town's great natural resources. I have been pleased to support Rep. Miceli."

THE BENEFIT OF FORGIVENESS

By failing to forgive, people continue to suffer damage that goes beyond the original wrong. This fact was recently brought home by a study in which volunteers were asked to think about someone who had hurt them. As a result of being prompted to dwell on their resentment, the wronged subjects showed signs of greater physiological and emotional stress, such as increased blood pressure and heart rate. Even after the subjects were asked to forget about the incident, the signs of physical stress continued. Conversely, when they were asked to forgive the people who hurt them, the volunteers felt happier and more in control. Forgiving does not involve excusing the wrongdoing, but focusing on the humanity of the wrongdoer.

Summer reading program ends with alien celebration

WILMINGTON - Last week, the Children's Department hosted the "Aliens' Send-off Party" - the grand finale celebration of the summer reading program. As many as 70 Earthlets, dressed in shining silver and white, some with tentacles, medallions and other space age finery attended the party. Prizes were awarded to Nathan Ricardo and William Bukowski whose costumes were noted to be especially fine. When two late arriving aliens entered the room dressed in creative and unique costumes, the guests gasped in admiration and wondered who they could be?

Winners of this summer's drawing contest were acknowledged and some wore their tee shirts with the winning designs on them. The Children's Department staff made bookmarks with the winning designs, which were distributed as favors to all the guests.

The winner of the "Guess the Number of Beach Stones" contest (there were 971) was invited to the front to receive his gift from the "Friends of the Library." Max Martin guessed 972. Second place winners Ashley Ricardo and Laura Keller each guessed 978.

Moondogs by Daniel Kirk, a book about a boy who goes to the moon to get a pet was read. A game of "hot asteroid" was played, refreshments of space cake and moon juice were served, and names were drawn for prizes.

Congratulations to all the children who participated in "Open Books, Open Frontiers," summer reading program. All children who participated may receive their "Reading certificates" at the Children's Room desk. Those showing their reading folders to their school librarians upon returning to school (grades one through five) will receive a free gift.

Thank you to Hairmates of Woburn and Stop & Shop of North Reading for the party refreshments. Thank you to the Friends of the Library, Custom Stitch, 129 Foodmart, and Simard's Super Roast Beef, all of Wilmington and The Big E of West Springfield for the party prizes.

TEWKSBURY - Tewksbury SERVE will hold its distribution day Saturday, August 26 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. One may also register for the September food package at this time and again on Thursday, September 7, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. For additional information on the SERVE program and stretching your food dollars, one may call MaryAnn Wareham at 851-3344 or the Senior Center at 640-4480.

Those traveling to the Red Hook Brewery and the Lobster Barn Monday, August 28, are reminded that the bus will leave from the Senior Center at 9 a.m. Those seniors who do not drive and are being picked up at their homes be ready one half hour earlier at 8:30 a.m.

Those attending Dr. Smith's podiatry clinic Tuesday, August 29 should check their appointment time. Also, those who are unable to attend are urged to contact Linda Brabant. Cooperation will enable someone on the waiting list to attend the clinic.

The concert on the common Wednesday, August 30 will feature "Airtight" and classical music from the 60s to the 80s. Concerts begin at 8:30 p.m.

Refunds for the canceled "Mystery shopping trip with Norma" are not available. If you paid for this trip and have not come for your refund by the end of the week, your refund will be mailed. This trip was canceled due to the lack of interest.

As noted last week, oil painting and wood carving participants have been asked to sign up at the front desk if interested in taking classes this fall. If you have already done so earlier in the summer, please just check to see that your name is actually on the list. Wood carving lessons will resume Tuesday, September 12. Oil painting classes will resume Monday, September 25 and Tuesday afternoon September 26. However, as an introduction to our art programs, the seniors will hold their "Annual Art Show" at the Senior Center Wednesday, September 20, from 6 to 9 p.m. More information on this event will follow in the upcoming weeks.

As previously noted there are two new classes coming up in September. The first is a Japanese Bunka Embroidery class which will be held Monday afternoons at one o'clock beginning September 11. The cost of this 10 week semester will be $50 per person plus the cost of supplies. The second new class will be a Tai Chi exercise class which will be held Friday mornings at 8:30. The first class will be held September 8 and will be a free introductory class. For those wishing to continue, the fee will be $9 for the semester.

You'll also find an interest list on the same bulletin board regarding a program conducted by "Stroke Prevention of New England." This agency comes to the Senior Center and administers Ultrasound Health Screenings for senior citizens and other at-risk members in the community. This team of medical professionals screen for stroke, abdominal aneurysms, peripheral artery disease and osteoporosis. Since these diseases rarely show symptoms, doctors are unable to routinely order these tests under the present health care system.

Due to this there would be an out of pocket fee for participants of $45 or $100 for three tests. The goal of this preventative screening program is the early detection of potential health problems from diseases that leave lasting effects on so many unsuspecting lives. If you think you would be interested in participating in such a program, place your name and telephone number on the list.

The COA staff will contact you if and when such a screening is held. You may want to take note that this agency will be conducting these screenings at the Tewksbury K of C Hall Wednesday, August 30 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Preregistration is a must and there are limited appointments available. For more information on this August 30, screening call 1-888-465-1535.

The Friends of the Elderly third annual Golf Connection Tournament is only three weeks away. It will be held Monday, September 11, at the Andover Country Club. The cost is $125 per person and includes a continental breakfast, green fees, cart, lunch and prizes. All proceeds from the Golf Connection will benefit the Senior Center Building Fund. For more information call MaryAnn Wareham at 851-3344 or Linda Brabant at the Senior Center 640-4480.

The seniors are also planning a giant yard sale and senior version of the Antique Roadshow for Saturday, September 16. Table space is $10 per space and the event is held rain or shine. Now's the time to start gathering your wares as well as those valued pieces to be appraised by Arthur Bergeron. To reserve a space one may, contact Carol Hazel or Linda Brabant at the Senior Center.

The following day trips are taking place over the next couple of months: the Redhook Ale Brewery and the Lobster Barn in York on Monday, August 28 at $31 per person (waiting list only); a Boston Duck Tour and visit to Quincy Market with lunch on your own on Friday, September 8 at $23 per person (waiting list only); Rockingham Park on Monday, September 18 with luncheon at $18 per person (school bus); the Amesbury Playhouse to see "Fiddler on the Roof" on Sunday, September 24, at $26 per person and Foxwood Casino Thursday, September 28 at $21 per person (waiting list only).

Have a great week!

Cressman presents Selectmen with budget recommendations

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
TEWKSBURY - The Board of Selectmen had a full agenda for its Tuesday-evening meeting on August 22. Budget recommendations, a new array on the Wynn Middle School's monopoly, warrant articles and sidewalk funds were among the issues discussed.

"I've put together a summary report, including my detailed recommendations [on the budget] and my indication of the available revenues, as of the time I put this together," said Town Manager David Cressman. "I've pretty much summarized where we are right now, based on the [Town Meeting] articles we'll see later."

Town Manager Cressman said that the budget will be discussed with the Finance Committee on Wednesday, August 30. A public hearing concerning the Town Meeting articles has been scheduled for Thursday, September 14. The budgeting process is in progress and needs more review before it is finalized.

Some of the increases proposed are due to changes in Property Taxes, New Growth, Chapter 70 State Aid, Supplemental Lottery Funds and lower Fixed Expenses.

Mr. Cressman said that the new budget is $64,740,388, which is an increase of $1,120,062 from his March recommendations. The increases will be felt in the School Department, Unclassified Expenses and some town departments. He said that a high increase in group insurance limited the available funds.

The school budget will increase by $600,000, making its cap at $1.1 million.

Unclassified Expenses will see an increase by $72,321 in a variety of accounts: $30,000 for Fire and Liability Insurance; $25,000 for Medicare; and $12,000 in the Temporary Interest. He also said that the Retirement Assessment will decrease by $4,679.

The remainder of the increase, $447,741, will be spread over several of the town departments. The major share will be reserved for collective bargaining and non-union wage settlements, which Mr. Cressman stated, left $22,510 to address department requests of $84,889. As a result, police overtime, firefighter overtime, computer equipment and Public Works' Purchase of Water will be decreased.

Mr. Cressman indicated that the small amount of funds were used to cover the cost of defibrillator replacements for the Fire Department; to make a payment of the initial interest on the lease of an ambulance and a pickup truck for the Fire Department; to create a permanent part-time position in the Treasurer's Office; to fix a vehicle for the Police Department that is used to monitor crisis situations; to make an interest payment for the lease purchase of DPW vehicles; to provide half-a-year funding for two new positions in the Department of Public Works; and several other slight revisions.

Concerning Omnipoint's array: "What we're wanting to do is be the fourth carrier on the monopoly," said Omnipoint Representative Randy Jones.

Mr. Jones said that basically the array will go on the pole and its equipment will be installed in the shelter that already exists on the grounds. He said that the next step will be to pursue a building permit to erect the array.

The board was concerned that the other pole on the property, the Sprint pole, has not been removed and should be removed before anyone else is allowed to attach to the new pole.

"We investigated that [issue] and as soon as Sprint comes on-line, they are planning to take it down," Mr. Jones said. He indicated that the Verizon strike has caused problems with Sprint's functions.

Mr. Cressman said that Nextel, also in line to go onto the pole and waiting for the old pole to be removed, has been delayed due to the Verizon strike.

"[Nextel] is going to wait, and I would recommend the same condition be put on this group, that they all wait for Sprint," said Mr. Cressman. He suggested that those groups put a little pressure on Sprint to dismantle the pole.

Selectman John Ryan said that the school department has indicated that it will not support Omnipoint's connection to the pole. He said that the school department requested an independent analysis from Omnipoint that it has not received.

In defense of his company, Mr. Jones argued that his company has no control over Sprint's actions and that perhaps the town should pursue legal actions to hold Sprint to their promise. He suggested that Omnipoint be allowed to attach to the pole. He also said that he was not aware of the school's request for the information. He suggested that a copy of the report be submitted to them.

"The fact of the matter is that [the pole] is on school property and the school department has raised an issue that they would like addressed," Selectmen Chairman Charles Coldwell said.

The board voted to table the request until their next meeting, in order to allow the applicant time to submit the necessary paperwork and to wait for Sprint's pole removal.

Regarding sidewalk funds...

Selectman Joe Gill raised questions about the funds in the sidewalk account being spent on engineering for the sidewalks. He wants to see the funds be spent directly on sidewalk installation. Mr. Cressman pointed out that engineering includes design of the sidewalks, as well as such issues as right-of-way and the use of people's property. All must be considered when installing sidewalks.

Both men agreed that sidewalk installations throughout the town are important and must proceed as cost-effectively as possible.

Finally, the board approved articles 10-16 as presented in the warrant motion.

Cressman presents Selectmen with budget recommendations

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
TEWKSBURY - The Board of Selectmen had a full agenda for its Tuesday-evening meeting on August 22. Budget recommendations, a new array on the Wynn Middle School's monopole, warrant articles and sidewalk funds were among the issues discussed.

"I've put together a summary report, including my detailed recommendations [on the budget] and my indication of the available revenues, as of the time I put this together," said Town Manager David Cressman. "I've pretty much summarized where we are right now, based on the [Town Meeting] articles we'll see later."

Town Manager Cressman said that the budget will be discussed with the Finance Committee on Wednesday, August 30. A public hearing concerning the Town Meeting articles has been scheduled for Thursday, September 14. The budgeting process is in progress and needs more review before it is finalized.

Some of the increases proposed are due to changes in Property Taxes, New Growth, Chapter 70 State Aid, Supplemental Lottery Funds and lower Fixed Expenses.

Mr. Cressman said that the new budget is $64,740,388, which is an increase of $1,120,062 from his March recommendations. The increases will be felt in the School Department, Unclassified Expenses and some town departments. He said that a high increase in group insurance limited the available funds.

The school budget will increase by $600,000, making its cap at $1.1 million.

Unclassified Expenses will see an increase by $72,321 in a variety of accounts: $30,000 for Fire and Liability Insurance; $25,000 for Medicare; and $12,000 in the Temporary Interest. He also said that the Retirement Assessment will decrease by $4,679.

The remainder of the increase, $447,741, will be spread over several of the town departments. The major share will be reserved for collective bargaining and non-union wage settlements, which Mr. Cressman stated, left $22,510 to address department requests of $84,889. As a result, police overtime, firefighter overtime, computer equipment and Public Works' Purchase of Water will be decreased.

Mr. Cressman indicated that the small amount of funds were used to cover the cost of diffractor replacements for the Fire Department; to make a payment of the initial interest on the lease of an ambulance and a pickup truck for the Fire Department; to create a permanent part-time position in the Treasurer's Office; to fix a vehicle for the Police Department that is used to monitor crisis situations; to make an interest payment for the lease purchase of DPW vehicles; to provide half-a-year funding for two new positions in the Department of Public Works; and several other slight revisions.

Concerning Omnipoint's array: "What we're wanting to do is be the fourth carrier on the monopole," said Omnipoint Representative Randy Jones.

Mr. Jones said that basically the array will go on the pole and its equipment will be installed in the shelter that already exists on the grounds. He said that the next step will be to pursue a building permit to erect the array.

The board was concerned that the other pole on the property, the Sprint pole, has not been removed and should be removed before anyone else is allowed to attach to the new pole.

"We investigated that [issue] and as soon as Sprint comes on-line, they are planning to take it down," Mr. Jones said. He indicated that the Verizon strike has caused problems with Sprint's functions.

Mr. Cressman said that Nextel, also in line to go onto the pole and waiting for the old pole to be removed, has been delayed due to the Verizon strike.

"[Nextel] is going to wait, and I would recommend the same condition be put on this group, that they all wait for Sprint," said Mr. Cressman. He suggested that those groups put a little pressure on Sprint to dismantle the pole.

Selectman John Ryan said that the school department has indicated that it will not support Omnipoint's connection to the pole. He said that the school department requested an independent analysis from Omnipoint that it has not received. In defense of his company, Mr. Jones argued that his company has no control over Sprint's actions and that perhaps the town should pursue legal actions to hold Sprint to their promise. He suggested that Omnipoint be allowed to attach to the pole. He also said that he was not aware of the school's request for the information. He suggested that a copy of the report be submitted to them.

"The fact of the matter is that [the pole] is on school property and the school department has raised an issue that they would like addressed," Selectmen Chairman Charles Coldwell said.

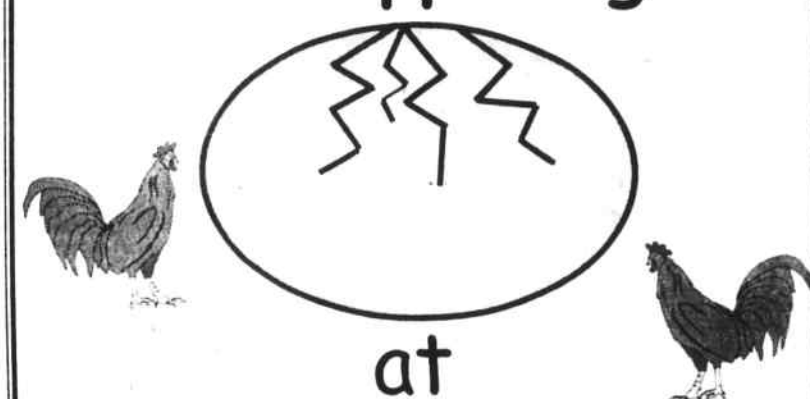

The board voted to table the request until their next meeting, in order to allow the applicant time to submit the necessary paperwork and to wait for Sprint's pole removal.

Regarding sidewalk funds... Selectman Joe Gill raised questions about the funds in the sidewalk account being spent on engineering for the sidewalks. He wants to see the funds be spent directly on sidewalk installation. Mr. Cressman pointed out that engineering includes design of the sidewalks, as well as such issues as right-of-way and the use of people's property. All must be considered when installing sidewalks.

Both men agreed that sidewalk installations throughout the town are important and must proceed as cost-effectively as possible.

Finally, the board approved articles 10-16 as presented in the warrant motion.

School Committee Subcommittee to update, organize school policies

By CHARLOTTE COOPER TEWKSBURY - Although the School Committee's August 16 meeting was relatively quiet, several important topics were discussed. • SCHOOL POLICY ORGANIZATION. At the request of School Committee member William DeGregorio, a subcommittee was formed for the purpose of naming a group to work with the Tewksbury School staff to update and organize the school policies.

"It has been a long-standing goal with all committee members," said Dr. Christine McGrath, Superintendent of Schools. She said that it has been the committee's goal for at least the last five years.

"We have contacted three organizations," Dr. McGrath said. "The Merrimack Education Center, the Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC), and the New England Staff Development Council. We met with them at personal meetings and conducted extensive interviews."

She said that she discussed with them all the services each organization could provide and came to the conclusion that MASC was the best group for the job. MASC also provides a legal review and accepted the $9,000 limit.

"They will also provide periodic updates after their contract expires in response to any changes," said Dr. McGrath. "The completion of the project will be about fourteen to eighteen months."

Dr. McGrath added that they will review the policies and procedures already on file.

"Our goal is to have a policy that was set up by the Department of Education or the state and have procedures from that," said Dr. McGrath. She said that they will review the policy and organize the procedures together and recommend any updates. They will also review the faculty and student handbooks and recommend changes that bring them into consistency with the current policies.

The committee voted to accept Dr. McGrath's recommendation.

• OMNIPPOINT. The company did not receive the OK to build a communications tower on the Wynn School property.

• FUTURE GOALS. The committee discussed the goals for the 2000-2001 school year. Dr. McGrath said that this is the fourth year of the Tewksbury Public School's five-year plan, and that the first and foremost goal is to continue to follow the guidelines throughout.

"The importance of the plan is, one, to continue re-certification efforts and align personal goals with the goals of the five-year plan," said Dr. McGrath. She said that progress reports will be submitted to the committee in February and June of 2001.

"Two, to develop a housing plan for middle school students for 2001-2002," Dr. McGrath added. "We continue to meet almost daily on the various aspects associated with that project."

Dr. McGrath said that due to the magnitude and the scope of the endeavor, the reports on the progress of the project will be submitted to the committee in October and December of 2000, as well as every month thereafter as a standing item on the agenda.

"We're working with the architect and the Wynn School Building Committee on the development of detailed plans on the specifications for renovation of the Wynn School," Dr. McGrath said. She indicated that there will be focus on the policy book and development and implementation of district performance standards.

The committee voted to accept Dr. McGrath's recommendations.

SCHOOL ARTICLE FOR TOWN MEETING. The article slated for the upcoming Town meeting was also discussed.

The article seeks authorization to utilize the purchase price funds from the sale of the Foster School for school improvement purposes and other school-related capital expenditures. The expenditures include support of alternate housing during the Wynn School renovation, computer upgrade systems, and new lockers.

A suggestion was made by committee member Douglas Sears to investigate a trust fund associated with the Foster School to see if that money could also be used for school purposes.

The article was approved.

Wilmington tops Melrose in Tournament of Champions

Wilmington 9, Melrose 5
The Wilmington C Division (10 year olds) entry of the Bay State Baseball League played outstanding baseball throughout the season and was rewarded for the hard work making it to the Tournament of Champions over the weekend. The playoffs were held in Sudbury with Wilmington vs. Melrose on Saturday, August 12.

Wilmington was without their ace, Chris Welch who was on vacation in Florida. Chris was a dominating force on the mound all season and was missed during the playoffs. Wilmington had Rob "Bubba" McIsaac who took the mound and pitched an excellent game. Wilmington got on the scoreboard in the first inning with leadoff walks to Nick Robarge and Anthony Morlani. With runners on first and second, Nick Riccio stepped up to the plate and whacked a double to left field scoring Robarge.

Rob McIsaac batting in the cleanup spot knocked in Morlani and Riccio with a line drive single. Rob McIsaac picked up two RBI's in the first and gave Wilmington a 3-0 lead. Melrose scored two in the bottom of the first to make it 3-2 after the first inning. The second and third innings were highlighted by great defensive plays from both teams as the score remained 3-2 after three innings.

In the top of the fourth, Nick Robarge, Anthony Morlani and Nick Riccio singled to load the bases for Rob McIsaac who came up big. Rob took a Melrose pitch deep into center field for a triple and picked up three more RBI's, he finished with five RBI's in this game.

In the top of the sixth with Wilmington leading 7-2, the hitting continued. Nick Robarge led off with a single and Nick Riccio walked. Michael Cabral hit a single driving in two runs to give Wilmington a 9-2 lead going into the bottom of the sixth. Rob McIsaac pitched five strong innings and dominated the Melrose hitters.

In the bottom of the sixth, Wilmington went to their closer Dan DelliSola who came in and closed the door on a rallying Melrose team. The final score in this game was Wilmington nine; Melrose five. Defensive highlights of the game were provided by Anthony Morlani at shortstop, Lou Cimaglia at second base, Stephen Stewart in center field and Michael Cabral behind the plate. With the win over Melrose, Wilmington advanced to the championship game on Sunday versus Stoneham.

Wilmington vs Stoneham
In a rainy, wet game Wilmington had their hands full with an undefeated Stoneham team. On the mound for Wilmington was Kevin Skinner who pitched all six innings and gave up only one hit. Kevin pitched a great game especially due to the weather conditions. Unfortunately for Wilmington, Stoneham had their ace on the mound who also threw a one hitter, as this was truly a pitchers' duel.

Stoneham was able to pick up three runs in this game to give them what would be a 3-0 victory. Defensive highlights of the game were provided by Kevin Skinner who made several nice plays coming off the mound and throwing out Stoneham runners, Stephen McIsaac made a great catch in right field and doubled off a runner who failed to tag up at second base. Rob McIsaac was smooth at shortstop, Michael Enwright showed off his arm throwing out a Stoneham runner on a ground ball to third base and Michael Cabral was solid behind the plate tagging out runners trying to score.

Trophies were presented to both teams for making it to the Championship game.

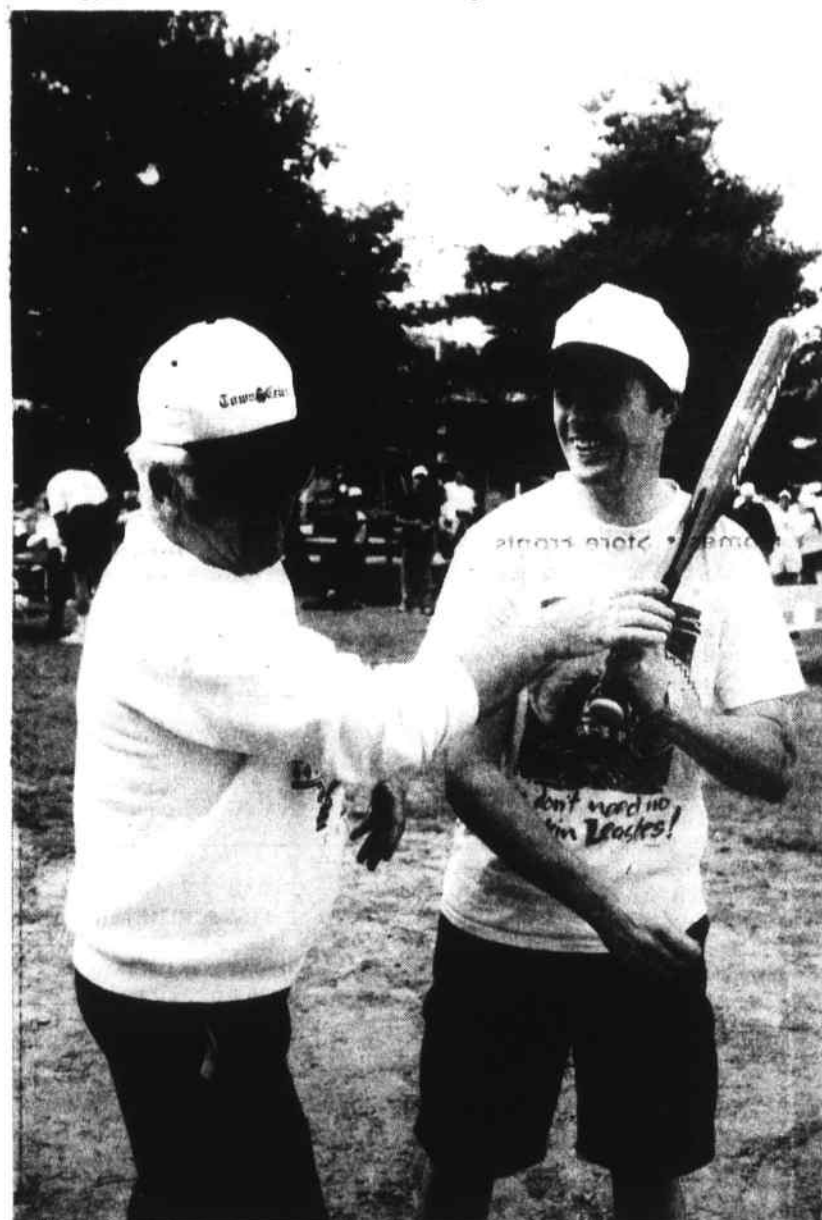

On behalf of all the coaches we would like to thank all of the players, their parents, the Bay State Baseball League, Highway Dept. (fields were in excellent condition), Al Caira and Jim Buck, the Town Crier and a special thanks to our sponsor the Matarazzo Brothers. Thanks for a great time!

Michael S. Cabral, Manager

THEY RAISED OVER $1200! The Town Crier softball team played their best ever game in the Easter Seals Tournament over the weekend. Team members sought pledges from friends and businesses raising over $1200.

They did finish in the top three teams in fund raising, but it will be a tough job next year, beating the team that raised $10,000!

Glen Road playgrounders wrap up fun filled summer

WILMINGTON - Tuesday, August 15, the Glen Road playground celebrated its last day of play-ground. Although playground was supposed to be held on both Monday and Tuesday of last week, Monday's activities were postponed and there was no playground due to rain. Tuesday was a jam packed day full of fun and good-byes as playgrounders got together for the last time of the summer in order to celebrate.

The first activity of the day was the Talent Search Showcase, where playgrounders could enter acts and show off their skills in front of the rest of the playground. The event was filled with dance groups and singers like Britney Spears, *NSYNC, 2Gether, and The Spice Girls. The leaders also entered a fun dance act as well. Next, Louie the lock Monster from the Lowell Lock Monsters came to hang out with the playgrounders. The Lock Monsters also brought down a giant inflatable hockey goal shooting game, where each playgrounder could take a shot at a "goalie" to try to score a goal. Ice cream sundaes were also served to each playgrounder with ice cream from Dandi-Lyons in Tewksbury to celebrate the last day.

The leaders of the Glen Road Playground would like to thank everyone who helped make this year's playground program a huge success: Dandi-Lyons in Tewksbury; Funland in Tewksbury; Canobie Lake Park in Salem, N.H.; Water Country in Portsmouth, N.H.; Chuck E. Cheese in Danvers; Candlewood Lanes in North Reading; Andrea's Pizza in North Reading; Crane's Beach in Ipswich; Chunky's in Pelham, N.H.; Dunkin' Donuts, Pizza Mia, Papa Gino's, the Lowell Lock Monsters, Traveling DJ Sounds; the Wilmington Police Department; Linda Kanter and the lifeguards at Silver Lake.

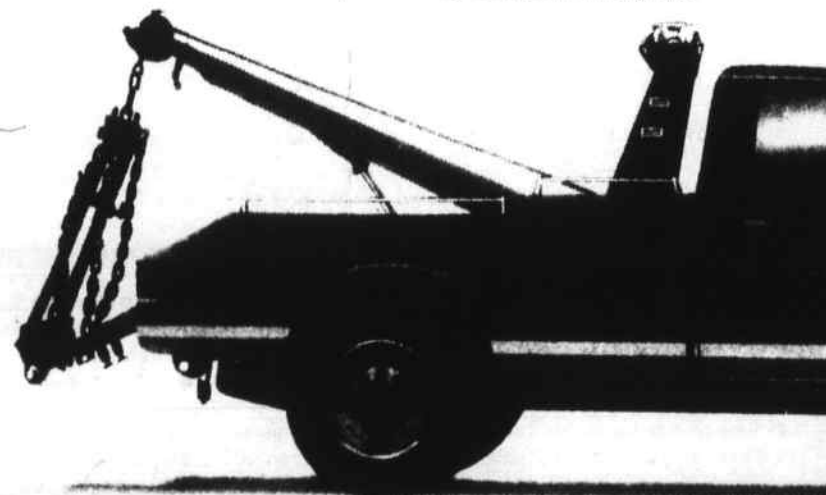

Also, the leaders would like to thank and congratulate all the playgrounders and volunteers who attended playground this summer for making the program so successful and so much fun!

Outdoors Column

Taking on Mount Washington . . .

By Ed Larkin

Each breath comes from deep down in your lungs as you struggle to catch your breath. Each new step, from the top of your legs down, burns from the continuous upward grade. A steady trickle of sweat drips from your forehead. As you struggle to find your pace, you are keenly aware of everything around you. Just 30 minutes into your hike and the forest, mountains and sky bring life back into your soul.

Call it hiking, trekking, or a walk in the woods. This is the best time of the year to enjoy the outdoors in New England. The White Mountains in New Hampshire offer the highest peaks in the area and hundreds of trails. Depending on your skill level or interest, there are good choices for the day hiker or the seasoned back-country trekker.

The "big hill," Mount Washington, remains the monolith every recreational hiker seeks to conquer in this area. Standing at 6,288 feet, Mount Washington is the highest mountain in the Northeast. The big hill is filled with trails that offer various levels of difficulties and a vastly different experience both aesthetically and physically. A climb up the big hill is always remembered for the challenge, the beauty and the feeling of accomplishment when you reach the top.

The best place to find out about hiking on Mount Washington is the Pinkham Notch Camp at the base of the mountain. All of the following trails start from or can be reached from this location. Trail selection is purely a personal choice. If you are a first timer, take the Tuckerman Ravine Trail. For more of a vertical challenge, try the Lion Head or Boot Spur trails. For a higher level of difficulty, try the Huntington Ravine Trail. Other trails that get you to the top include Glen Boulder Trail and Dittissima. There are lots of other trails that start in different locations. To save time, call Pinkham Notch Camp at 603.466.2727. They will be happy to give you information and advice.

Mount Washington is not the biggest mountain in the world, but it is one of the most dangerous. The weather on Mount Washington can change in minutes. The world's highest winds have been recorded on the top of the mountain (231 miles per hour on April 12, 1934). The upper third of the mountain is completely exposed to the elements. Since records started being kept, 129 people have died in the Presidential Mountains. Exposure to the elements played a role in the deaths of most of these people.

Before taking on Mount Washington, make sure you are fully aware of the weather for the next 24 hours. Also, make sure that you have the proper equipment. As with any outdoor activity, make sure that you inform someone of your plans and the time of your return. Try to hike with a partner, for this ensures that if someone gets hurt, then someone can go for help. It is also more fun to share the trip with a good friend.

If you go to Mount Washington, plan on a full day. It takes between 8-10 hours to climb up and down, depending on your trail selection and your level of fitness. A good time to be on the trail is by 8:00 a.m. This gives you plenty of time to relax and enjoy the climb. Check in at Pinkham Notch Camp for the latest weather information and trail updates before moving up.

How you pack depends on the length of time you'll be going into the woods. If it is a day hike, pack lightly with the basics. The basics include: a compass; map; pocket-knife; warm clothes; a rain poncho; and extra food and water. For an extended trip make a packing list. Design your extended trip-packing list to fit the trip and conditions that you might encounter.

The White Mountains and, especially, Mount Washington are among New England's greatest gifts. The enjoyment of reaching the top on a clear day is a tremendous reward for the willing. Just remember to treat the mountains with the respect they deserve.

Girl's softball wrapping up great season

The Tewksbury girls softball 12 and under travel team will complete their summer travel schedule this weekend in the annual Tewksbury Tournament. The girls have competed in seven tournaments thus far this summer and have played well over 40 games.

Some of the highlights from the season are: a perfect 6-0 record in capturing the Chelmsford tournament; a fourth place finish (4-2 record) in the tough "A" division state tournament in Taunton; the team qualified for the New England Regional Tournament in Danvers and finished fifth in the New England; they went (4-3) for the tournament including a grueling five games played on Saturday. Other notable accomplishments include third place finishes in Greenfield and at Ft. Devens.

Their games this weekend will be held at the Little League fields on East Street beginning Friday at 8 p.m. vs the Mass. Explosion; then two games on Saturday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. against the Rhode Island Crush and the Worcester Hurricanes.

The team roster includes: Julie Carlino, Elizabeth Mucica, Alicia Rocco, Sarah Boudreau, Kristen Smolinsky, Lindsey Marsh, Kristine Elwell, Meredith Hill, Amanda Fogaren, Michelle Coppi, Dina Ferriero, Ashley Riccardi and Alex Sacco.

Readers are urged to stop by the field this weekend and watch some fine softball while giving the girls their support.

Jay Pandolfo of Burlington was greeted to a hometown celebration last Wednesday when he spent the day with the Stanley Cup.

The 1992 Burlington High School graduate is a member of the New Jersey Devils of the National Hockey League, whose championship trophy, the Stanley Cup, just might be the pinnacle of all championship hardware.

The day had a definite twinge of "local boy makes good" as the 25-year-old Pandolfo is a homegrown Burlington product. After a police and fire escort around town, he made his way out of a limousine at 10 minutes past noon to a BURLINGTON'S JAY PANDOLFO returned home to his native Burlington last week and in his grasp he had the Stanley Cup, hockey's version of the holy grail. Hundreds showed up on Burlington Common to greet and honor the former Burlington High and Boston University product.

McMahon now a candidate

Ed McMahon, a 14 year veteran of the Lowell Police Department announces his candidacy for Register of Probate. His experience as a police officer gives him a unique understanding into Probate's daily oversight of child custody, divorce and family law proceedings.

"The office needs to move forward into the 21st Century using the technology available; it is critical that the Office operates as efficiently as possible," said McMahon.

Along with his experience in law enforcement, Ed McMahon possesses a strong management and financial background. Ed was the successful owner and operator of both a restaurant and laundry business in Lowell.

"Owning and operating two different establishments gave me the management, organizational, financial and people skills to be an effective Register of Probate," stated McMahon.

The Democratic Primary will be held Tuesday, September 19. The Office represents the 54 cities and towns in Middlesex County.

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

From Winchester to Woburn in photos

"A pictorial history of Woburn from its earliest beginnings to the 1900s is the latest book on the city to be published," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"A treasure of some 200 old photographs of people, places and artifacts from the Woburn Public Library collections, the book is a great selection by itself, or as a complement to the recently published 'Woburn: A Past, Observed,' by local author John McElhinney.

"Published by Arcadia, the book is part of its 'Images of America' series, in which a number of histories of Massachusetts cities and towns have already been printed.

"The Woburn book was put together by Library Director Kathleen M. O'Doherty. A portion of the proceeds from book sales will benefit the library.

"O'Doherty said many books in the series have been written by town librarians, archivists, historical societies or just interested individuals or community groups.

"After receiving a letter from the publisher acknowledging her interest in doing it and outlining the procedures, O'Doherty said she approached the library's board of trustees about the project.

"She noted that the library's collections could be put to use and the library could talk with the publisher about splitting the proceeds.

"The board gave her a green light and about a year and a half later, the project is completed and available for sale at the library ($18.99) and other area bookstores.

"O'Doherty added that she worked on the book on her own time. 'It was a lot of work, but a lot of fun too,' she said.

"A Winchester resident,

Branching out: by the book and by the numbers

O'Doherty noted that she 'was born in Woburn and very proud of it.'

From library to office in Lynnfield

"The Capital Needs Building Committee (CNBC) was given the green light to utilize the former South Lynnfield branch library on Salem St. as an office," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"The Selectmen were also in favor of the town hiring administrative help for the committee - a permanent part-time position, purchasing computer equipment and activating a phone line into the building.

"CNBC Chairman Allen Lieb said the building is perfect for their needs. He said it has a working boiler and fire alarm system, shelves and plenty of storage space.

"He said it was not appropriate for public records to be stored in private homes. Lieb anticipated the person will be needed for the duration of the projects plus another year, about four in all.

"Town Administrator Joseph Maney recommended the town advertise at the rate of approximately $14 per hour, based on a grade 3 clerk at Town Hall. Lieb said he expects the person will be needed 12 to 20 hours per week. Duties will include writing correspondence, filing, record keeping, working on spread sheets and photo copying. Lieb said hiring someone will take the burden of this work away from the Town Administrator's office.

"The CNBC was instructed to purchase computer equipment for under $1,500, from existing capital project funds.

"Maney said the only problem with the building's location is the lack of parking, but people can park a short distance away at South Hall."

MOVIE REVIEWS

"Godzilla 2000" entertaining

BY PAUL FEELY

MOVIE: "GODZILLA 2000"
GRADE: ***

Review: Only four words need to be said about this film's strong point: man in rubber suit.

The biggest problem with Sony's 1998 blockbuster flop 'Godzilla' was that the computer animated giant lizard had no soul, a staple of the Japanese monster movies that science fiction fans love. This new release goes back to the old formula, complete with a man in a rubber suit stomping through a set of miniature buildings, and WWF-style battle royale between the big green guy and another monster, and incredibly bad English dubbing (there are points where dialogue is being read, even though no one's mouth is moving).

This time Godzilla reappears in downtown Tokyo in time to save the world from a UFO that has been dormant for 6,000 years, but the plot could really be anything at all - it's just good to see a sense of humor come back to the series, which now stretches over 30 different movies.

MOVIE: "THE REPLACEMENTS"
GRADE: **

Review: This film is very close to one that came out in the late '80's called 'Necessary Roughness'.

Keanu Reeves plays a man who was a rising star as quarterback in college, but whose life has since fallen on hard times. No NFL team will touch him, but when a labor issue threatens to put an end to the season, owners decide to use replacement players, and he gets his shot at the big time.

Gene Hackman turns in a strong performance as the tough, hard-nosed coach who also has a heart, but there's much else to crow about with this one. The team even features replacement cheerleaders, taking dancers from a local strip club and putting them on the field, which creates some funny situations, but overall this one is a bit of a clunker.

MOVIE: "SPACE COWBOYS"
GRADE: ***

Review: Once again Clint Eastwood has proven that he's willing to shed his tough guy image and broaden his acting horizons as he grows older.

Eastwood, who also directed this feature, stars as the head of a team of men (consisting of Tommy Lee Jones, Donald Sutherland, and James Garner) who were originally scheduled to be the first Americans in space, before NASA decided to replace them with a chimp.

Now, 40 years later, a Russian satellite from that time period is failing, and Eastwood and his team are the only one still alive who know the schematics of such a device. They begin training, hoping to finally get their shot at heading into space. Of course, unexpected problems develop.

This one plays like an adult's version of 'Armageddon', as Eastwood expertly bounces between action and funny scenes. Jones gives a great performance as a hotshot pilot, while Garner gives it his all (he needed knee surgery after filming the jogging scenes).

MOVIE: "WHAT LIES BENEATH"
GRADE: **

Review: This mediocre horror movie gets by on the star power of its two leads, Harrison Ford and Michelle Pfeiffer.

They play a husband and wife who are facing empty nest syndrome, when Pfeiffer's character starts having hallucinations and seeing ghostly apparitions. It turns out that their home is being haunted, by the ghost of a woman whom Ford's character had an affair with years ago, who wants her revenge.

Hooray to Hollywood for pairing up a husband and wife team that are close to each other in actual age, but the script isn't what it could be. Some moments are scary, but for the most part, if you have seen the coming attraction trailer for this one, you already know what's coming.

MOVIE: "X-MEN"
GRADE: ***

Review: is one of the better comic book adaptations to come along since Tim Burton's 'Batman', and was obviously written and directed by a fan of the wildly popular series.

The premise is that evolution occurs through the slow mutation of a species, and that every 100,000 years or so there is an explosion of mutations. That is happening now, as hundreds of humans are turning up with superpowers that intensify when they reach puberty.

Relatively unknown actor Hugh Jackman stars as Logan, a mutant with a self-healing power, retractable metal claws and a super-strong endoskeleton called Wolverine. Patrick Stewart plays Professor X, who runs a school where mutants can learn to harness their skills. Ian McKellan plays Magneto, an evil mutant that wants to wipe out the human race for persecuting the humans, an effort led by a US Senator whom he turns into a mutant as well.

While a story about superheroes, X-Men was always about treating people the same, even though they may be different than you, a message of tolerance. The movie manages to communicate that message effectively, while dazzling you with special effects, superb stunts, and above-average acting.

MOVIE: "THE PATRIOT"

Review: It would be easy to pass this latest Mel Gibson movie off as 'Braveheart' battles the British, but it's much more than that.

There are similarities between the movies. Gibson once again plays a man who enters a war because he has personally been hurt by one side, but the powerful story and constant shifts in the balance of power keep you guessing as to whether or not Gibson's character, Benjamin Martin, will triumph in his quest for vengeance.

There's a lot of anguish in Martin's face, and you'll know why when you see the atrocities his family must suffer through at the hands of the British. So what if it's not historically accurate - this is a summer movie, and a perfect way to escape a hot summer day.

CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD WORKERS REUNION

Boston National Historical Park will honor former Navy Yard workers and celebrate the bicentennial of the Charlestown Navy Yard this year with a full schedule of events on Labor Day weekend, September 2-3.

Activities will include a turn-around cruise aboard the World War II destroyer USS Cassin Young, a 1940's canteen dance, shop reunions and a family picnic workers are encouraged to bring with them memorabilia and artifacts to add to the National Park Service permanent collection, and oral history stations will be set up to record former workers' reminiscences.

Congress established the Charlestown Navy Yard in 1800 as one of six naval shipyards in the United States. For 174 years, as wooden hulls and muzzle-loading cannon gave way to steel ships and sophisticated electronics, the yard evolved to meet the changing needs of a changing navy.

During World War II the yard employed nearly 50,000 men and women who worked around the clock, seven days a week, building and repairing ships.

When the Charlestown Navy

Yard closed in 1974, 30 acres were set aside to be preserved as part of Boston National Historical Park. The other 100 acres of the Navy Yard are owned by the Boston Redevelopment Authority, and represent the most successful example of adaptive reuse of a former military installation in the nation.

For more information on the Navy Yard Workers' Reunion call 617-242-5627 or visit the park web site www.nps.gov/bost.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

High-risk action in Winchester

"School Committee members got an alarming glimpse into local teenage life recently through a report on high-risk behaviors compiled through an anonymous survey of high school and middle school students," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"High school counselors Glen Atkinson and Kristen Shea presented the results of the 1999 Youth Risk Behavior Survey, which is conducted every two years. Students in grades seven through 12 answer questions about alcohol, tobacco and marijuana use, violence-related behavior, body image and perceived safety at school. High school students answer additional questions about sexual activity and suicidal behavior."

"Consistent with state statistics, Shea said, gender behavioral differences between Winchester students tend to narrow by the end of high school."

"Shea said a number that jumps out is that 38 percent of high school students reported

Taking control of risky business: drug dealing, smoke screening, health caring

having at least five or more drinks in a row on at least one day in the past 30 days from the survey date. Fifty-six percent reported having at least one drink in the past 30 days.

"In response to School Committee member Peter Haley's question, Shea said Winchester High's self-reporting of heavy binge drinking is slightly higher than state numbers. Atkinson and Shea pointed out that high-risk behavior tends to occur in clusters, but confirmed Haley's supposition that alcohol use cuts across various segments of the student body.... Another number that appeared to disturb the committee is that 6 percent of female high-school students and 7 percent of male students reported an attempted suicide within the past year. Shea said she was shocked because she and Atkinson only knew of about 30 cases and Haley found that equally troublesome...."

Experimental activities in North Reading

"Consider this: two-thirds of local tenth graders surveyed drink alcoholic beverages and smoke cigarettes; while 60 percent admitted having tried marijuana and 20 percent have experimented with a drug called 'Ecstasy,' notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Teens in North Reading appear to be experimenting with tobacco, alcohol and drugs in numbers similar to those found in cities and towns statewide, including large urban areas."

"This was the conclusion drawn by James Canino, assistant to the director of Pupil Personnel Services, after reviewing results of a survey administered in March to a sampling of local eighth and tenth graders."

"The survey was conducted as part of a requirement of a Safe and Drug Free Schools grant the School Department has received."

"The 38 questions on the survey zeroed in on issues ranging from school safety to smoking and alcohol to illegal drug use and abuse."

"Results in nearly every category showed that North Reading is 'pretty similar to the rest of the state' as far as teen experimentation and use of these substances is concerned."

"I can't say I was shocked. Our kids aren't growing up in a vacuum," Canino remarked.

"The survey was administered to a randomly selected group of 50 eighth and 50 tenth grade students. Students, who needed parental permission to take the survey, were urged to answer the questions honestly and were guaranteed anonymity."

"When asked if they felt unsafe in school, 15 percent of the eighth graders surveyed said they had from time to time, while less than 5 percent of tenth graders admitted to having had such feelings."

"Fifteen percent of eighth graders and 75 percent of tenth graders have smoked a cigarette, according to the survey.... In the area of alcohol usage, the data reveals that about half of the students surveyed have imbibed at one time or another.... Alarming, 20 percent of the high schoolers surveyed claimed to have used a 'designer drug' called Ecstasy.... School Committee members questioned how reliable the survey's conclusions could be since such a small sampling of students was used...."

"Committee members were concerned by the fact that cigarette smoking by students jumped considerably from grade eight to grade 10 and that one out of every 10 high school students has had an alcoholic beverage."

"There must be a need for a program here. We've got to do something about this drinking," member Steve Jervy remarked.

"Canino said the first step, after reviewing information, is to come up with a plan to lower the numbers of students participating in these risky behaviors."

"He said the receipt of future grant monies depends on successfully alleviating the problems identified through the survey to some extent. A plan to do so will be drawn up, he added."

"Superintendent Dr. David Troughton said he thought it was important to make the results of this survey public."

"We shouldn't stick our heads in the sand and say this doesn't happen in North Reading," he said. "We should deal with it."

Healthy investments in Wilmington

A technically proficient newcomer, a healthy sum of money, a re-shuffling of positions... to elaborate...," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"After welcoming freshly elected newcomer Dick Scanlon to the committee, Superintendent of Schools Geraldine O'Donnell announced the name of a fresh face in the Wilmington school system."

"Louise Leland has acquired the position of the school system's new Technology Coordinator. She arrives in Wilmington with twenty years of experience as an educator in public school systems. She has also been the Assistant Director of Technology and Director of Technology at a school in Somerville. In fact, she even worked with architects to develop a new school in that city."

"Her references spoke very highly of her, particularly for having strong people skills," said O'Donnell of Leland. "They have said that she is good at mentoring people around technological issues."

"The Department of Public Health has awarded the Wilmington School System with a grant in the amount of $300,000. The funds will be used to improve all school health services."

"This is a major overhaul and a major opportunity to improve school health services," said O'Donnell.

"Specifically, the money will be used to invest in major technology for all school nurses. One such investment will include the implementation of databases for all student health records."

"The money from the grant will also be used to create the position of an Administrative Coordinator. It is this position that will replace the one of School Nurse. Norma Rushton, who is currently the School Nurse at Wilmington High School, will become the new Administrative Coordinator. She will be assisted by a nursing fine introduction from Jack Ferrin who was working the microphone as master of ceremonies.

The appreciative crowd of a few hundred people at the time, some of whom near the front of the line had waited since 11 a.m., broke into enthusiastic applause as Pandolfo, adorned in his actual Stanley Cup finals away jersey, raised the Cup over his head.

Pandolfo is by no means a publicity hound. One of the more understated athletes you'll find in sports, Pandolfo isn't the kind the TV, radio and newspaper types look toward for a sound bite or quote.

A third- or fourth-line player with the New Jersey Devils, Pandolfo knows his role and plays it quite well. This past season in 71 games he had seven goals and eight assists for 15 points during the regular season. But, come playoff time his playing time increased when a good skating defensive player was needed.

He may not receive the notoriety that millionaire teammates Martin Brodeur, Scott Stevens and the like get, but on this day in Burlington, it was his time to shine.

"This is nice, it's great for the kids, they seem so excited about this," said Pandolfo. "I didn't know what to expect."

Local businessman Joe Morandi, co-owner of Morandi's Barber Shop helped organize the day.

"He's been cutting my hair since the sixth grade," said Pandolfo. "He used to follow me at BU and actually called me down in New Jersey after we won and said he'd love to handle all the details (of this day)."

Pandolfo was busy signing the whole four hours. The wait at the end of the line, which circled the Town Common gazebo, was up to an hour during its peak from one o'clock to near 3:30.

Pandolfo was exceptionally accommodating. He signed anything put in front of him. The items ranged from the Daily Times Chronicle flier, to shirts, hats and sticks. He also took time to pose for pictures with the Stanley Cup.

One time Pandolfo joked he wouldn't sign a Bruins shirt before finally doing so.

Pandolfo and The Cup were escorted by Mike Bolt of the Hockey Hall of Fame, who is part of its Keeper of the Cup branch. Bolt, 31, and another Hall representative, accompany the Stanley Cup on its various rounds during July and August throughout the world.

Bolt makes sure no one takes undue advantage with the Holy Grail. Stories of the Cup being at the bottom of pools, or being abused during more adult, shall we say, celebrations are frowned upon.

Pandolfo was going to take the Stanley Cup to a private party at the Crown Plaza in Woburn later that evening. A host of former teammates, coaches, friends and relatives were to attend.

The local player's rise to NHL supremacy is entrenched in local routes. Beginning in Burlington Youth Hockey it looked at first he may take his talent out of town to St. John's Prep in Danvers. His transferring back to Burlington as a sophomore was met with great anticipation.

Ever wary of taking some of the pressure off his young talent, Burlington High hockey coach Bob Conceison kept Pandolfo under wraps from the local media imploring "give the kid a break, he's only 14 years old."

During his three years at Burlington High most could see what perhaps lay ahead. Pandolfo was always a great skater who, although a center in high school, was going to be better suited to play the wing. He was the Middlesex League co-MVP during his senior year. He amassed 35-34-69 numbers during the 1991-92 season.

Being a young player never was a hindrance for Pandolfo as talent was always the great equalizer. He played the early season of his freshman year at BU as a 17-year-old freshman. After winning a national championship with the Terriers in 1995, Pandolfo finished up at BU as the Hockey East Player of the Year in 1996 and was an Eastern All-American.

A second-round draft pick by New Jersey, Pandolfo began his pro career with the AHL's Albany River Rats soon after the BU season wrapped up in 1996.

For the next two seasons he shuttled back and forth from Albany to New Jersey, but for the last two years, he's been a full-time NHL'er. For his career, Pandolfo has played in 210 regular season games with 28 goals and 32 assists for 60 points.

He's expected to continue to play a key role for the Devils in their title defense in the upcoming season. Pandolfo resigned for two more years with the Devils in July.

BURLINGTON'S JAY PANDOLFO takes time out to sign an autograph for six year old Brett Romkey also from Burlington. Hundreds showed up to honor Pandolfo, the first resident of the local area to ever have his name engraved on the Stanley Cup for playing on a championship team.

Realtor Names in the News

Reading, MA - Judy Bernard was recently certified by the RealNet Learning Services of McLean, Virginia as a CBR Certified Buyer Representative.

Judy Bernard is an associate with RE/Max Top Achievers in Reading and is now trained in the professional representation of home purchasers.

Buyer Representation is rapidly changing the face of real estate. Propelled by knowledgeable home purchasers, legislative action, and consumer watchdog groups, homebuyer representation has gained momentum in the residential market in recent years and is now available nationwide.

Realtors offer two certificate programs at convention

One of the largest educational programs ever offered to local real estate professionals will occur when the Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) holds its 76th annual convention and trade show, from September 5 to 7, at the Sea Crest Oceanfront Resort and Conference Center, North Falmouth, MA.

In all, the convention will offer nearly two dozen educational sessions for both new licensees and experienced brokers and agents, providing ample credit hours of instruction for real estate practitioners needing to acquire the 12 course hours of mandatory continuing education to renew their real estate licenses.

Additionally, the three-day program will feature two, new professional development certificate programs and a Certified Residential Specialist (CRS) designation course. The Real Estate Trends certificate program includes four sessions that will prepare practitioners to market and sell to baby boomers and the active, adult lifestyle community, while the Technology Trends program will focus on innovative technology for the industry, including e-mail and Internet marketing.

Full convention registration fees are $150 for MAR members and $200 for non-members who register by August 18, while single-day registration fees are $99 for MAR members and $150 for non-members. After August 18, all registration fees increase by $25. For details on the Massachusetts Association of Realtors 2000 Convention Program, call MAR Customer Service at 1-800-725-6272, or access the association's consumer web site, at <http://www.marealtor.com>, and click on the MAR Convention icon.

JUDY BERNARD

A Buyer Representative is a cooperating agent who legally represents the real estate buyer. They generally do so under an exclusive buyer representation agreement, much like a traditional real estate broker represents the seller under an exclusive right to sell listing agreement.

A buyer representative limits the seller's liability, since the buyers own agent becomes responsible to the buyer, rather than the seller's agent. In addition, a Buyer Representative is often a highly professional agent representing qualified and highly motivated purchasers.
